Dedication

Teacher, leader, and friend—Roy H. Lane, who died January 26, 1967, lives on in the minds of the students he taught here during his four and a half years at Hamilton-Wenham Regional High School. His unique methods of teaching have enabled our Mathematics Department to become one of the best in the state. Through his guidance and perseverance the Massachusetts Mathematics League, which he founded, grew very important to many schools. The Regional's Math Team, another product of Mr. Lane's ideas and leadership, has developed the talents of many students.

To the memory of Roy H. Lane, one who has opened doors and taught us to keep them open, the Class of 1967, dedicates this year-book with pride.

Foreword

Doorways to knowledge, truth, self-understanding—all are encountered by each student at the Regional. Some have passed through many of these portals to truth and wider learning; others have sometimes turned away—yet all have been given the keys to open these doors.

As graduates, members of the class of '67 will go on to discover more of the elusive knowledge concealed beyond the doors. In opening some doors, we have already found that they lead to other even more challenging unopened portals. As underclassmen, the rest of the student body has yet to open many of these doors during their years at the Regional, but they will reach and unlock many more.

Holding the coveted keys to many gateways of knowledge are the members of the faculty. Some have held the doors wide open as we passed through; others have revealed the thresholds of knowledge and beckoned us to enter and share a magical land with them. They never pushed us through—the decision to step inside was entirely our own.

Supplementing this search for learning in the classrooms, extracurricular activities have aided in throwing open the doorway of self-understanding. The satisfaction of overcoming obstacles, the joys of cooperation and leadership, the exaltation of success—each of these steps to maturity came through the experiences shared in the clubs, class activities, and athletic contests.

Of course, unlocking such doors to truth and understanding will not end upon graduation. Our jobs, our college years, our experiences throughout our lives will lead us to many more thresholds of learning and to a new realization of the values of these first explorations, for—

*"We shall never cease our exploration
And the end of all our exploring
Is to return where we started
And know the place for the first time."*

T. S. Eliot

Mentally

New demands from the changing world have created varied opportunities for the student today and the citizen tomorrow. To use these opportunities well, one needs knowledge that comes from mental experiences ranging from daydreams to serious study. Accepting this challenge of the future, the courses offered at the Regional recognize individual differences, stimulate thought, and prepare young people for colleges and vocations.

Physically

Because the truly all-round student should be physically fit, healthful training and correct procedure required to attain physical fitness are stressed at the Regional. Developing strong bodies and alert minds is emphasized in intramural activities, as well as in junior varsity and varsity sports. All these activities are designed for voluntary participation by students.

Socially

Serving also as a means of social development, education at the Regional presents many opportunities for students to cultivate new interests. Using their individual abilities, students satisfy their social needs by sharing experiences with others in groups. These activities enable students to build a strong, flexible foundation for later relationships as mature, responsible citizens in their rapidly changing world.

Administrators

An outstanding administration is the basis for an outstanding school. Hamilton-Wenham Regional is fortunate to have administrators who are deeply interested in maintaining high standards, and continuing improvements in the education of tomorrow's citizens.

This year the administration adopted a rotating schedule of daily classes; modernized the curriculum by offering earth science, electronics, and readings in Hispanic literature; and effectively utilized the teacher-training program of Northeastern University.

Guidance

Guidance services this year were concerned with testing and evaluating, aiding students in the selection of subjects (by correct level and sequence), helping with vocational and further-education placement, and carrying out other basic functions.

Special stress, however, was placed on presenting programs, such as speakers and films that were directly requested by students. The Student Council's Guidance Advisory Committee enabled the guidance department to be more responsive to such student requests.

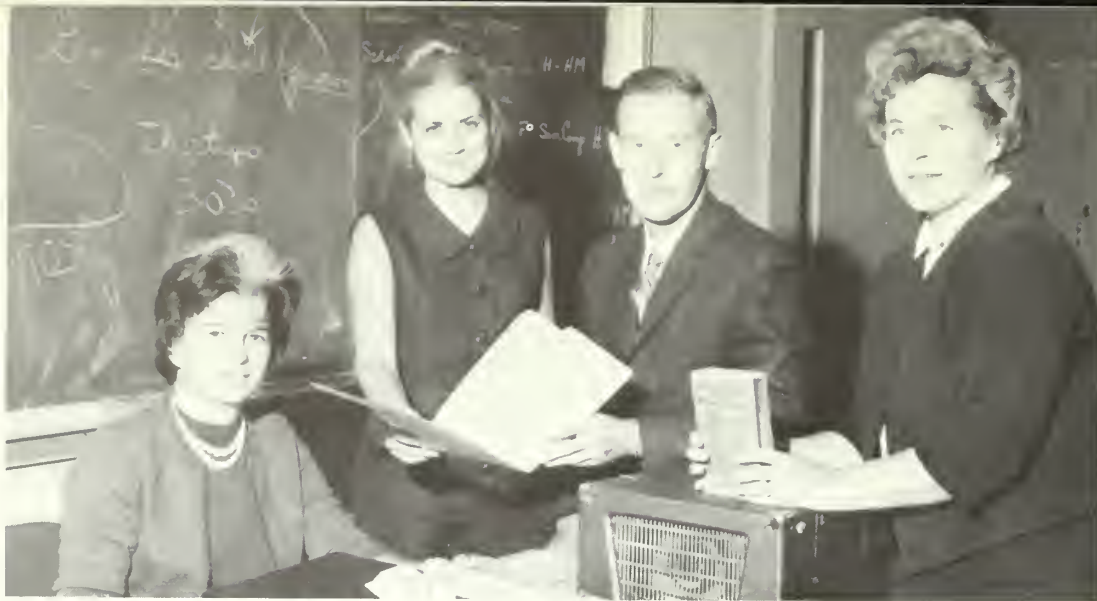

DONALD W. MacDIARMID Tufts University A.B.; Boston University M.Ed., C.A.G.S.; Guidance Director and Counselor.

EDWARD J. COFFEY Harvard University A.B.; Salem State College M.Ed.; Guidance Counselor.

MISS PRISCILLA E. MCKAY American International College B.A.; English 10, 12; Yearbook Adviser. MRS. SUSAN J. ALLEN Wheaton College A.B.; Harvard University A.M.T.; English 9, 11; Newspaper Adviser. MRS.

English

To develop the ability to receive ideas, evaluate their worth, and express them clearly in speech and writing; to increase understanding of human nature and of the problems common to all men; to develop ability to communicate emotions and to share the emotions of others—these are the goals of the English Department. Such skills in language bring confidence and satisfaction, not merely in a rewarding job, but in all personal relationships.

MARGARET D. FERRINI Radcliffe College A.B.; Salem State College M.Ed.; English 11; Dramatics Society Adviser.

Social Studies

In attempting to develop in the student an understanding of history, past and present, and an ability to cope with the future, the Social Studies Department curriculum includes government, economics, civics, ancient history, U.S. history, modern world and American history, psychology and sociology, and a history seminar. These courses cover a broad area from the rise of civilization to the political, economic, and social crises of today.

Through stimulating lectures and outside-class research, the student comes to a greater understanding of his values, traditions and culture, and of his society, his country, and himself.

EDMUND TRAVERSO Brown University A.B.; Boston University Ed.M.; University of Chicago John Hay Fellow; Ancient History, History Seminar; History Department Chairman.

KENNETH W. STEWART University of Maine B.S.; Algebra I, II, Geometry; Boosters Club Adviser.

Mathematics

Because it is more than mere numbers, mathematics integrates imagination with facts and provides not only knowledge to fulfill present needs but also background material which will be valuable in future years.

Students in college preparatory courses are presented all the basic concepts they can assimilate in the fundamental ideas and techniques of mathematics. The efforts of the department have been well rewarded by the outstanding record of the math team in the state-wide contests.

Practical application of classroom knowledge is emphasized in shop, business, and general mathematics courses designed to prepare students for vocations.

MISS PATRICIA A. DOWD University of Maine B.A.; Geometry, Algebra I.

NORMAN L. SWANSON Tufts University B.S.; Algebra I, II, Geometry, Calculus, Analytical Geometry; Math Club Assistant Adviser.

MISS JANET E. ALLEE New York State University B.S.; Harvard University M.A.T.; Biology, Earth Science; J.V. Basketball Coach.

ROBERT B. SIMPSON Boston University B.S.; Bridgewater State College M.Ed.; Earth Science, Physics; Track Coach, Assistant Football Coach, Class of 1968 Adviser.

Science

HAROLD B. SIMPSON Northeastern University B.S.; Bridgewater State College M.Ed.; Colby College M.S.T.; Physics, Chemistry; Science Department Chairman; National Honor Society Adviser.

To meet continued growth in student interest in science, the course offerings have been expanded each year. This past September earth science was offered to all freshmen. New equipment obtained for the course provided many interesting laboratory exercises. An auto-clave, purchased this year, helped to speed-up sterilization of culture media. Also as nature took her course, additional cages were necessary for new generations of hamsters and mice.

New equipment in both physics and chemistry has enabled students to obtain faster and more accurate measurements of data which, in turn, have produced more accurate results in student experiments.

JOSEPH R. MERRILL Lowell Technological Institute B.S.; Chemistry; Assistant Wrestling Coach, Assistant Yearbook Business Adviser.

BRUCE A. GOULD Nasson College B.S.; Biology, Earth Science; Assistant Track Coach.

RONALD V. BAKER Maine Maritime Academy B.S.; University of Maine B.S., M.A.; Latin, French; Foreign Language Department Chairman; Class of 1967 Adviser.

Foreign Language

To develop an appreciation of the culture of a foreign country is the main goal of the Foreign Language Department. In French and Spanish the student is expected to acquire a facility not only in speaking and understanding the language, but also in reading and writing it. The study of Latin involves only the skills necessary for reading and writing the language, along with a thorough study of the Roman world.

The courses in any one of these three languages proceed on a sequential basis—from simple grammatical constructions to a more detailed and complex study of the literature and of the civilization of that people.

MISS HUGUETTE P. LABBE University of Maine B.A.; French; Future Teachers Club Assistant Adviser. MISS BARBARA A. FLEWELLING Colby College B.A.; French.

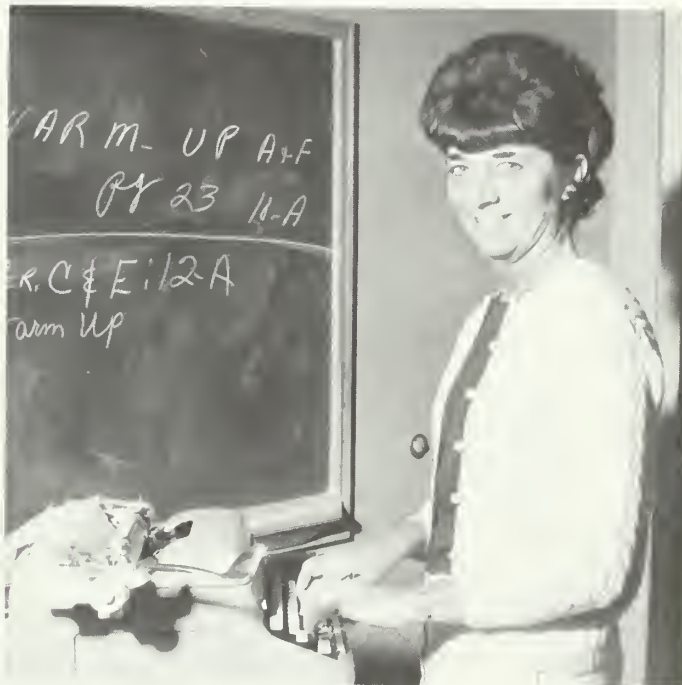

THOMAS H. MOORE University of Maine B.A.; Spanish, French.

MRS. MARIANNE T. TOZIER Salem State College B.S.; Recordkeeping, Shorthand, Typing; Future Teachers Club Adviser.

MISS MARY E. HACKETT Salem State College B.S.; Typing, General Business, Business Mathematics; Bookkeeper for Student Accounts.

Business Education

The Business Education Department offers a wide variety of courses which contribute to the general education and vocational preparation of students in developing desirable concepts, attitudes, and skills. Students have an opportunity to acquire an understanding and appreciation of the values and possibilities of the business subjects for personal needs, for vocational preparation or for further study in the business field.

By assisting in the school office, the students are provided realistic office experience.

Upon graduation, students are prepared to perform efficiently duties usually encountered in an initial office position.

MRS. MARY P. BERGMAN Salem State College B.S., M.Ed.; Shorthand, Office Practice, Notehand, Bookkeeping; Business Department Chairman; Graduating Class Adviser.

MISS SONJA L. PRYOR Gordon College A.B.; Chorus.

Music

From the martial airs of the marching band to the refined strains of chamber music, the music department offers students a wide variety of experiences. The performing groups include the band, pep band, brass choir, mixed chorus, a cappella choir, and several small instrumental combinations. Starting in the fall numerous performances were given throughout the year.

The Regional's marching band helped to promote more school spirit at the football games. Also performing at the fall games was the pep band, made up of nine students from the larger band. The singing groups entertained at the spring Arts Festival and at the graduation exercises.

RICHARD F. McLOON Boston University M.B.; Music; A Cappella Choir, Band, Chorus; Wrestling Coach.

MISS ELIZABETH M. VOGEL Michigan State University B.A.; Art, Algebra I; Cheerleading Coach, Softball Coach, Art Club Adviser.

Art

A relaxed atmosphere, coupled with the discipline of regular assignments and specific subject matter, characterize this year's activities of the art department.

Here an individual exercises his freedom to think, to feel, and to express in visual form the results of his thoughts and emotions. The awareness that art is both a process and a product comes as the student has occasion to act as both the artist engaged in the creative process, and the observer regarding with appreciation and analysis the work he has created and that done by others.

MISS DEBORAH E. BROWN Green Mountain Jr. College A.A.; University of Maine B.S.; Home Economics; Future Teachers Club Assistant Adviser.

FRED W. HALE Keene State College B.Ed.; Salem State College M.Ed.; General Shop, Electronics, Mechanical Drawing; Freshman Basketball Coach, Faculty Manager of Athletics.

Home Economics

Home Economics offers practical application of scientific and artistic principles in courses which are geared to student interest, ability, and experience. Subject matter areas are many and varied: clothing, foods and nutrition, interior decorating, home management, personal and family relationships, and child care and guidance. Integrated with all these areas are discussions on financial planning, home improvement, and health and safety.

To all young women, these subjects make a valuable foundation for the responsibilities they will assume as they accept adult roles in their community.

PETER T. GILL Fitchburg State College B.S.; Mechanical Drawing, General Shop; Vocational Guidance, Class of 1969 Adviser.

Industrial Arts

In the industrial arts program students are taught practical skills in mechanical drawing, woodworking, gas welding, auto mechanics, and metal work. The school shop provides a place for systematic and guided experience with tools, materials, and workshop equipment.

To strengthen the existing program, the study of electronics has been added to the curriculum. Other new areas studied in the courses include metal spinning and copper enameling, besides an occupational unit for all students.

Physical Education

Foremost among the objectives of the Physical Education Department is the attainment of physical fitness including both physical and mental health. Participation in physical education classes is mandatory for all students. Varied activities designed to promote physical fitness are stressed, including calisthenics, gymnastics, and sports.

The competitive phase of this curriculum for students of average ability is the intramural program. For those boys and girls of superior athletic ability inter-school athletic contests provide valuable experiences.

SHERMAN A. KINNEY Springfield College B.S., M.Ed.; Football, Basketball, Golf Coach; Physical Education Director.

MISS CAROLE KENYON Hood College B.A.; Boston University M.Ed.; Field Hockey, Basketball and Track Coach; Girls Physical Education.

JAMES E. WELSCH Springfield College B.S., M.S.; Assistant Football and Basketball Coach, Baseball Coach; Boys Physical Education.

Service Personnel

Various groups who serve the Regional daily deserve considerable credit for the smooth functioning of our school.

Among these are our maintenance men who keep the building and grounds clean and attractive. The cooperation of the custodians in many school activities is unsurpassed.

Long before the first bus arrives, Mrs. Lane and her assistants are busily preparing to serve hundreds of hot lunches daily. Satisfying a teenager's huge appetite with nutritious and well-balanced meals is not an easy task.

Responsible for the varied business activities in the superintendent's and principal's offices are the secretaries, clerks, and bookkeeper. Members of these office staffs are indispensable to both the faculty and the student body.

CAFETERIA STAFF

Cafeteria Supervisor Mrs. Clara C. Lane, Mrs. Carolyn Chouinard, Mrs. Loretta G. Tremblay, Mrs. Eleanor E. Landers, Mrs. Hilda M. Dolan

Secretary to Mr. Coffin, Mrs. Rita Purington resigned in October to devote more time to her family. An integral part of school life for four years, Mrs. Purington's friendly manners and willingness to assist others are greatly missed by all.

CUSTODIAN STAFF

A Salute to Those Who Lead

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Treasurer—Debbie Jones; Vice-President—Joyce Graf; President—Dick Ryder; Secretary—Ellen Albanese.

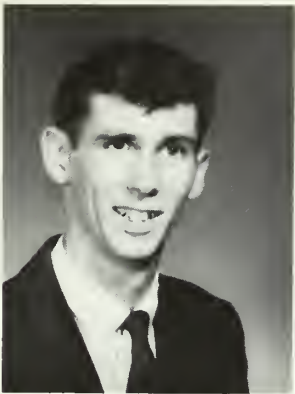

The Class of '67 has had four active years. In addition to the traditional high school activities, dances and concessions at football and basketball games, this class has sponsored other projects, both original and successful.

In the spring of the sophomore year the class initiated two highly successful fund-raising projects, a car wash and a cake sale. The class also sponsored a Folk Fest in March of the junior year. At this event local talent, including some Regional students, performed. In late spring the long-awaited Junior Prom, the only formal dance before graduation, featured an evening of Moonlight and Roses for the sixty-eight couples that attended.

During senior year thoughts turned to graduation, colleges, jobs, and the service. As a more unselfish project, through the Foster Parents Plan the class has aided a young Greek girl, Irene Grafanaki, who is pictured at the left. In addition to the annual $180.00 check for her support, the class sent her family a box of clothing, food, and household supplies. A member of the class also regularly corresponds with Irene.

The Class of '67 has successfully varied and enlarged the normal pattern of class activities.

Classroom Doorways Open to High Achievement

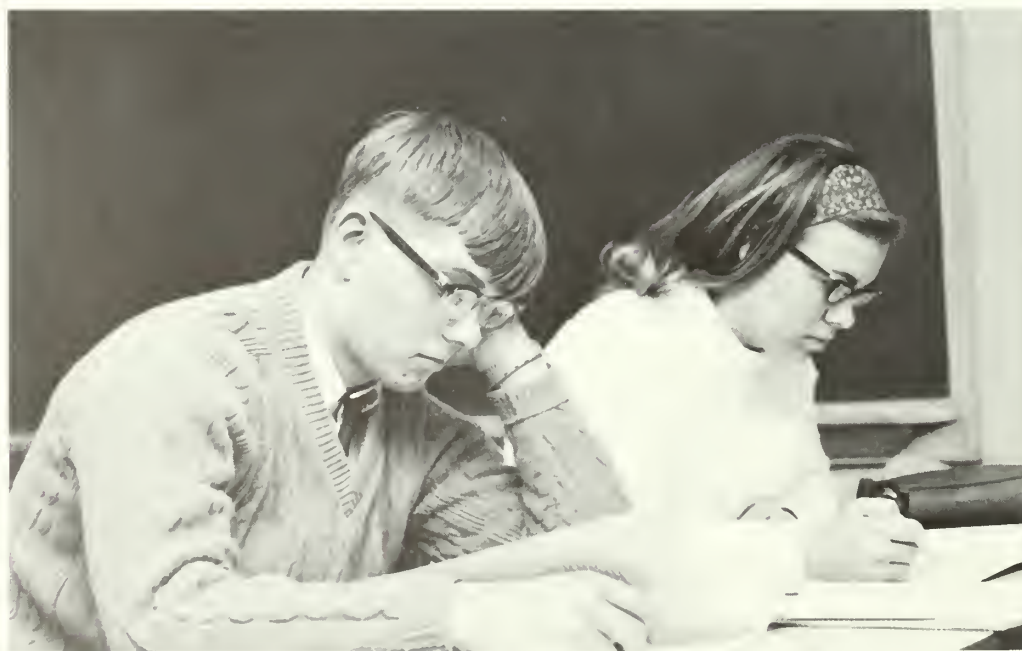

In English 10 sophomores do an intensive study of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar. Kevin Linnehan shows keen interest by examining a replica of Shakespeare's Globe Theatre.

Individual conferences enable students to discuss their special weaknesses with their English teachers and to find remedies. Mr. Robert Hayward helps Joanne Dorden with one of her written assignments.

Reading, discussing, listening, thinking, and writing enable students to gain understanding of both themselves and others. Developing the power to comprehend and to communicate ideas and emotions brings lifetime dividends from the investment made in English classes.

Reading-improvement techniques are taught in the College Reading Skills course. Juniors Greg Dobrenchuk and Jody Sampson concentrate on their reading for speed and comprehension.

Math Means More Than Just Numbers

Students are challenged daily in their efforts to solve varied types of mathematical problems. Designed to provide an integrated program, the mathematics curriculum trains all students to appreciate the values and limitations of mathematics using all the basic fundamentals they can absorb.

Sometimes the understanding of a problem requires discussion among students. Bruce McFarlane helps Karen Fellows solve a difficult algebraic equation.

The geometric figures are more transparent than Bruce McFarlane's thoughts as he reflects on problems from a math team tryout test.

Mr. Philip Leasure readies the projector to show the movie The City by Louis Mumford. This film was observed by members of the sociology classes to help them develop an appreciation of urban life.

Responsible Citizens Study Government

History and social studies courses deal with significant events, problems, and movements in both American and world history. A great effort is made to tie most of these courses closely to the English curriculum so that reinforcement of lessons learned and methods of research and analysis may be strengthened in both history and English classes.

Sophomore Brian Armington examines mold which he grew as an extra project for his biology class.

Susan Parker watches to see the chemical melt in the capillary tube during a melting point determination experiment. Judy Kraus is equally as interested in the outcome of Susan's experiment.

Lab Students Investigate Varied Phenomena

Working on experiments in a well-equipped research lab gives the young scientist an opportunity to investigate and to draw conclusions concerning various phenomena previously studied in classes. Students successfully completing a sequence of science programs gain greater insight into the scientific wonders which surround them in their daily living.

Business Students Equipped for Office Jobs

Skill on modern office machines, accuracy in typing, speed in shorthand, knowledge of the bookkeeping cycle, and comprehension of social values, give students abilities which help them to enter the business world as competent office workers.

In Mr. Tom Moore's French I class sophomore Dean Thurston illustrates his phrase, sept jeunes filles, to clarify its meaning to the class.

Three times a week students in Mr. Tom Moore's class listen to tapes. This repetition leads to mastering varied expressions and grammar statistics. Freshman Mike Hurley listens intently to his tape.

Language Students Gain Wider Horizons

Foreign language students are drilled in hearing, comprehending, and producing the characteristic sounds of a strange speech. Through the study of literature the historical and cultural aspects of different civilizations are made clear to the students.

Creativeness—Keynote of Art Department

Working on ceramic mugs while Miss Vogel helps Jay Maciejowski are Nancy Scott, (left), Peggy Sargent, and Linda Healy.

Sherry Cone and Sandra MacLean evaluate paintings done in their commercial art class for a billboard-advertising project.

Experiences in Art I and Art II provide a general background for students interested in art. More advanced courses explore in depth the media and methods of the artist, practicing these techniques as well as studying our art heritage.

Christmas projects, including work on mosaic woodblocks and department store posters, give Judith Kraus and Anne Martin an opportunity to express their creative talents.

Music—A Universal Means of Communication

Hiding behind the tuba, Brad Knowlton supplies the oomph-pa-pa while Calvin Kline accompanies him on the French horn.

Practice during class is a routine job for band members Bruce MacDonald, Gary Davis, and Randy Cobb.

One fourth of the total school enrollment participates in our comprehensive music program. Students have ample opportunity to become acquainted with many types of music, their composers, and the wide variety of musical instruments.

Pep Band members Tom Frick, Arleigh Thurston, Chris Roland, and Calvin Kline provide lively music at football rallies and games.

Shop Provides Unlimited Opportunities

Surrounded by basic tools, materials, and workshop equipment, students are guided in both vocational and avocational interests. The industrial arts program challenges personal initiative and abilities in an informal work atmosphere.

Home Economics Trains Future Homemakers

To all young women Home Economics offers a necessary foundation for the varied responsibilities they will assume as they accept their adult roles in their communities. All courses in this area are geared to student interest, ability, and experience, and are made as practical as possible.

Physical Education Today—Fitness Tomorrow

Relays, games, stunts, tumbling, calisthenics, sports, and many other activities play vital roles in the attainment of physical fitness. Related objectives stressed in gym classes include motor and safety skills, knowledge and social objectives, and the aesthetic appreciation of physical well-being.

Pictured above to the left is part of a freshmen class learning how to throw a two handed chest pass used in basketball. To the right are Scott Malone (left) and Paul Barry (right) who are ready to begin warm-up exercises before learning similar basketball techniques. ## MacQuarrie and Galloway Reign at Junior Prom

Moonlight and Roses was the theme for the annual Junior Prom held at the Regional gymnasium on April 18, 1966.

Class members and their dates walked through a white, rose-covered trellis which was the passageway to a long-remembered evening. Tables were covered with dark pink crepe paper, and a single, long-stemmed rose was placed at each table to add to the decor. At the far end of the gymnasium a wrought-iron love seat and chair were nestled in a garden setting of a wishing fountain surrounded by shrubs.

President Richard Ryder, Vice-President Cynthia MacGregor, Secretary Ellen Albanese, and Treasurer Deborah Jones led the traditional grand march. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Queen Joan MacQuarrie and King William Galloway. After the dance the class went to the King's Grant for a midnight dinner.

Winter Blues Dispelled by Gala Winter Carnival

A Festival

of Art . . .

Delightful as well as educational was the annual Festival of Arts held last spring at the Regional. Janna Scott and Lee Horsman shared the spotlight during Mr. Richard McLoon's presentation of chamber music.

Cynthia Reid leads a modern dance group in A DANCER'S INSPIRATION directed by student teacher Miss Frances Platt.

Drama . . . Music . . . Dance . . . Literature

Barbara Bursaw and Mike Harris were part of a group of students who captured the audience in such festive dances as LA CHAPANECAS and EL JARABE PATENO which were directed by Mr. Thomas Moore.

Janie Fitzpatrick takes Alan Watkins's pulse as Richard Hawkins and Elizabeth Egbert supervise. This sophomore group was awarded second place in the one-act play contest when Janie Fitzpatrick was judged Best Actress.

Romeo and Juliet Wins Audience Acclaim

Romeo (Jim Miller) weeps at Juliet's (Marilyn Lawrence) tomb after killing Paris (Peter Lees).

Don Bianco, portraying Lord Capulet's servant, exclaims, "I don't know how to read!"

William Shakespeare's ROMEO AND JULIET was presented in November by the Regional's Dramatics Society under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Ferrini. Audiences reacted warmly to the polished, professional-like performances given on two evenings.

Particularly outstanding was sophomore Marilyn Lawrence's portrayal of Juliet, the tragic heroine. Sharing the lead with Marilyn was senior Jim Miller, who did an excellent job of conveying the impression that Romeo is a tragic victim of circumstances beyond his control.

Other featured roles were performed by Janet Searles, the nurse; Kathy Reeves, Lady Capulet; Judy Ceremsak, Lady Montague; Joyce Patenaude, servant to the nurse; Ellen Albanese, the apothecary; Widgy Egbert, cousin to Capulet; Dick Ryder, Friar Lawrence; Richard Hawkins, Lord Capulet; Chris Gates, Lord Montague; Tom Dresser, Tybalt; Kevin Linnehan, Mercutio; Peter Lees, Paris; and Peter Wallace, the Prince. Alan Watkins and Don Bianco earned special applause for their humorous performances.

Much of the polished appearance of the play was lent by the strikingly colorful costumes and the properties which were supervised by Wendy Campbell and Ann Barney.

As Friar Lawrence, Dick Ryder prays that Romeo will arrive on time at Juliet's tomb.

Barbara Bursaw uses her feminine charm in selling a copy of Reveille to a Milton High School student during spring Drama Festival.

Mrs. Margaret Ferrini congratulates a student from Marblehead as he receives an award.

Dramatics Society Hosts Drama Festival

On March 17 and 18, 1966, the Dramatics Society was host to eleven schools which participated in the Preliminary Drama Festival held at the Regional. Our own drama group was not able to enter the competition because of having placed first in the State Festival the previous year. However, a lot of work in preparing for this event had to be done by the Dramatics Society members who arranged all the details of staging, rehearsing, and publicity. Those plays taking first honors were "The Teahouse of the August Moon," by Marblehead High School; "Time Remembered," by Brookline High School; and "The Woodshed," by Milton High School. In April these winning schools went on to compete in the state finals held in Boston, where the Regional Dramatics Society members also worked as hosts.

At the registration desk Sue Martel greets a student while Georgette Evans checks off the names of guests.

Top School Scientists Honored

SCIENCE FAIR WINNERS MARCH 11-12, 1966

Barbara Bursaw holds her first prize award in front of her project called "Measuring the Rate of Photosynthesis in Aquatic Plants and Aquatic Animals."

Wendy Campbell shows her mother and Paul deVos, Dick Ryder's project entitled "Design and Construction of Fluid Control Devices."

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY INDUCTEES

FIRST ROW: Debbie Jones, Kristina Smith, Linda Nelson, Kathy Newborg, Cathy Gorini, Mary Bennett, Joyce Graf, Ellen Albanese.

Outstanding Students Recognized

Steadying her candle, Linda Nelson walks carefully to place it on the ceremonial table.

Adviser Harold Simpson smiles as he relaxes after the induction.

Student-Faculty Fracas

It's none other than that courageous defender of truth and honesty, Batman (Jim Welsch), and his close associate Robin (Sherm Kinney), who appeared as stars at the student-faculty basketball game held last spring.

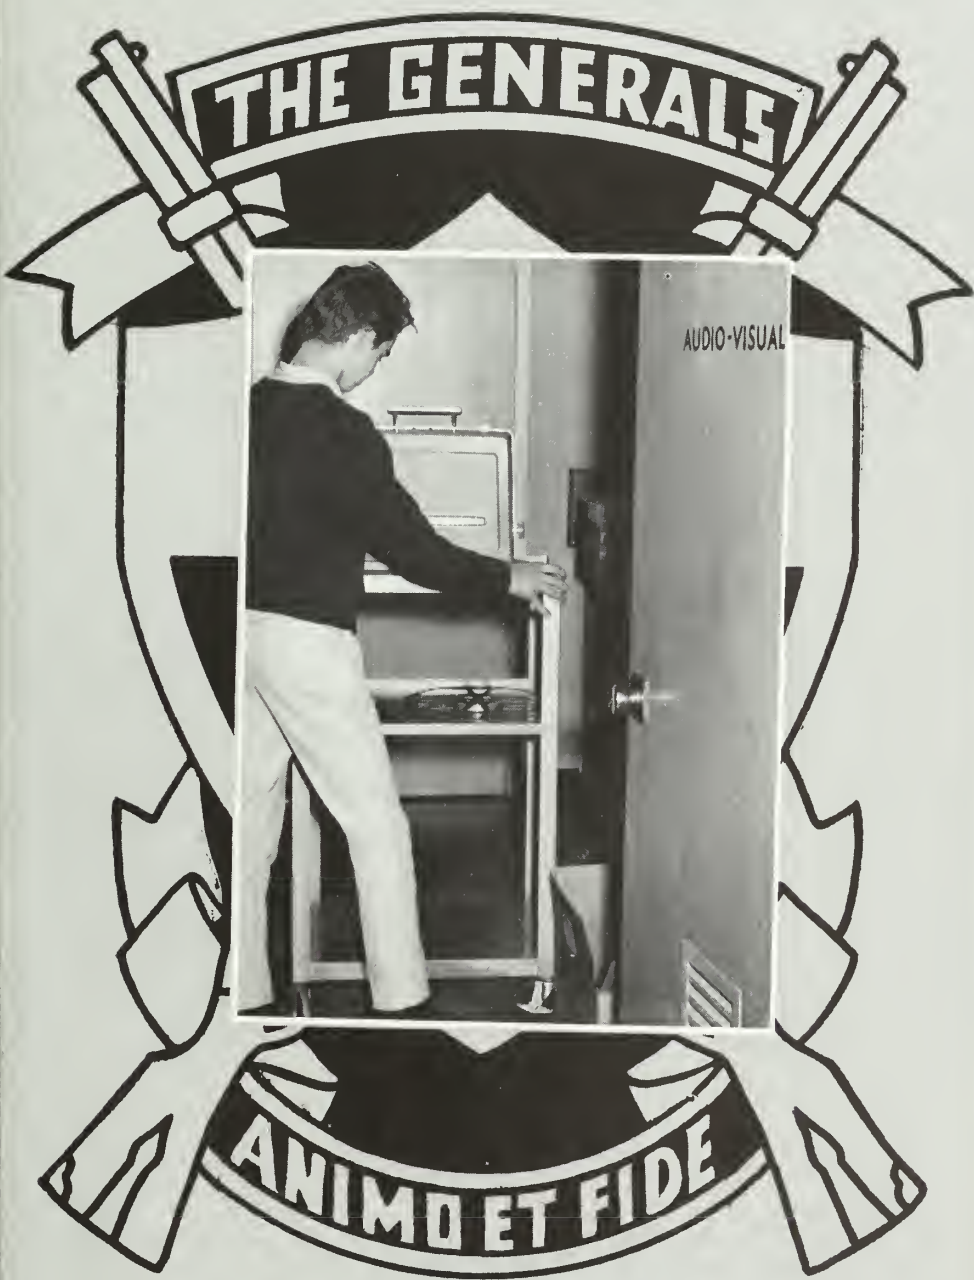

With Mr. Richard Lavoie knocked to the court, Mr. Ken Stewart tries a few deep-knee bends while attempting to recover the ball.

Last spring the seniors managed to squeak by Batman and his faculty friends, 62-60, in the annual student-faculty basketball game held in our gym. Supporting Batman (Jim Welsch) and Robin (Sherm Kinney) were illustrious King Tut Trites, Joker H. Simpson, Penguin Hale, Riddler Matthews, Bookworm Baker and Rats Mello, R. Simpson, Merrill, Stewart, Lavoie, and French. Coached by Travis Belton, the seniors held a 37-28 half-time lead, but Batman and his intrepid gang roared back to end the second half in a 60-60 tie. In an overtime, Karl Zaccone scored the winning basket. Seniors Bob Carter, Jim Forrester, Will Warwick, Dave Gray, Jim MacNeill, Rich Butterworth, Paul Koloski, Bob Shaw, Karl Zaccone, Bob Caldwell, Dave Ketcham, Dick Eldridge, and Dan Snavelly showed strong defensive effort which proved to be the undoing of Batman and his diehards.

Using a few ballet steps, Mr. Harold Simpson makes a valiant effort to catch the ball.

Yearbook Takes On New Dimensions

SALUTē PRODUCTION STAFFS

For a year and a half co-editors Kathy Newborg and Patricia Sanders have been eagerly anticipating the publication of Salutē 1967. Faithful and dedicated lay-out staff members Denise Burton, Deborah Marchant, Linda Nelson, and Joyce Tuneburg worked with the co-editors and the adviser, Miss Priscilla McKay, in planning the new collegiate-size yearbook. Business adviser Mr. Richard Lavoie and his enterprising business staff spent many months soliciting sponsors from parents, friends, and local business establishments, and also taking orders from the student body.

BUSINESS STAFF

Sound-Off Adds Professional Touches

Under the editorship of sophomores Karen Oleson and Miguel Bello, and adviser Mrs. Susan Allen, Sound-Off has expanded and improved this year. Now the staff writes and lays out a full page of copy for the Hamilton-Wenham Chronicle each week. The Sound-Off staff has undertaken laying out the pages with the help of professional writers from the Chronicle in order to realize the privileges and obligations of journalism and to introduce future journalists to professional writing. Working under the editors-in-chief have been activities editors Gail Graff and Randy Cobb, girls' sports editor Chris Brown, and boys' sports editor John Day.

National Honor Society Publishes Handbooks

This year the National Honor Society held an initiation for its probationary members. Shown here is Rogene Smerage stopping in the hall to converse with Susan Secord.

National Honor Society members are recognized for their outstanding academic achievement and for their exhibition of leadership qualities, high character, and service in both school and community.

Handbooks, compiled and published by the N.H.S. members, were distributed in September to all freshmen and new students to acquaint them with the school's policies, organizations, and activities. To finance this handbook, the society sold refreshments at the Gordon College basketball games held at the Regional.

Again this year members offered tutoring services to those students who wished to receive extra help in various academic subjects.

In December probationary members were announced by Mr. Harold Simpson, National Honor Society Adviser. These new members include Michael Harris, Stephanie Hurley, Lynele Jones, Scott Scribner, Susan Secord, Rogene Smerage, and Philip Taylor.

Student Council Holds Mock Elections

FIRST ROW: Judy Ceremsak, Karen Oleson, Philip Taylor, Gordon Furbush, David Belton, Lynne Herndon, Stephanie Hurley, Kristen VanAusdal. SECOND ROW: Kathy McCauley, Sue Dodd, Margaret Kerr, Joyce

Under the leadership of its new president, David Belton, the Student Council this year has attempted to strengthen the ties between the student body and the council. Although the council's revision of the dress code was controversial, it was supported by the majority of students. Under the revised constitution the Student Council was able to sponsor the newly-formed Ski Club and to take an active part in its operation. In order to analyze successfully the school's academic and extracurricular programs, the Student Council hopes to program an exchange visit with a large urban school. It also hopes to establish a scholarship to be given to a member of the graduating class.

Aside from these activities, the council held its annual January dance, the Winter Carnival, and at the end of the year the popular Bermuda Dance.

Mock elections for the Massachusetts State Legislature were held by the Student Council in November. Mr. Donald Trites, Dick Taylor, and Gordon Furbush checked ballots after school to find out the election results.

Dramatics Society Promotes Culture

President of the Dramatics Society, Jim Miller, won the best actor award for his excellent performance in Playwright's Dilemma.

Shortly before curtain time, Susan MacLean puts on the finishing touches of Mike Hurley's makeup. Mike played Balthasar in Romeo and Juliet.

Early in the year officers for the Dramatics Society were elected to assist Mrs. Margaret Ferrini in planning the year's program. Jim Miller was chosen as President; Kathy Reeves, Vice-President; Ellen Albanese, Secretary; Joyce Graf, Treasurer; and Ann Barney, Stage Manager. Preparations were soon started for the annual school play. The choice this year was Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, which was received most enthusiastically by audiences on November 18 and 19. In February a scene from this production was presented at the New England Drama Festival, sponsored by the Boston Globe. In the spring the Dramatics Society sponsored the annual one-act plays presented by each of the four classes.

Prompter Wendy Campbell follows the dialogue of Juliet (Marilyn Lawrence) and the Nurse (Janet Searles) during a rehearsal for Romeo and Juliet.

Audio-Visual Club Helps Us Hear and See

President Paul Franz and other members of the Audio-Visual Club assist Mr. Robert Matthews in providing audio-visual equipment for classroom use and for extracurricular activities. This service includes delivering equipment as well as operating the machines. Students in this organization volunteer their services which are utilized daily by many teachers. Traditionally the members have helped Mrs. Margaret Ferrini with the Dramatics Society's annual production. This year the group worked behind the scenes of Romeo and Juliet with Stage Manager Ann Barney in the operation of curtains, lights, and other audio-visual equipment.

Janna Scott and Paul Franz are getting ready to move the overhead projector for use in projecting transparencies on a screen in an English classroom.

When equipment is returned to the audio-visual room, it is checked by a club member. Steven Woodward makes sure the tape recorder is in proper running order for the next person who wants to use it.

Chorus and Choir Add Zest to Assemblies

Everyone in school looks forward to the Christmas assembly, which features a musical program. This year as the student body entered the auditorium, the Brass Choir played several Christmas carols. Then the A Cappella Choir, directed by Mr. Richard McLoon, and the Regional Chorus, led by Miss Sonja Pryor, sang a few secular pieces such as a Hebrew folk dance and a Negro spiritual and Michael Praetorius's Psalite.

In January freshman Greg Warwick sang bass in the chorus at the Northeast District Music Festival, which is sponsored by the Massachusetts Music Educators' Association.

The Band and the Pep Band were particularly active at the home games during the football season and added much to the color and pleasure of the contests.

Mr. Leasure Challenges Students in Chess

Student interest in chess became evident this year when Mr. Philip Leasure challenged several students to the game. By late fall a large group of boys and girls gathered each afternoon after school to play Skittle games, which are games played for fun. At mid-year a Swiss Tournament was played in order to find ten players to form an official team, which challenged teams from nearby schools. By paying dues each term, club members financed the purchase of additional chess sets and chess clocks, and a subscription to a chess magazine.

New Impressionists Excel in Creativity

Evidence of the creative talents of the New Impressionists has been found throughout the school building this year. Colorful Christmas decorations painted on the windows by members of the club and by students from various art classes added greatly to the school's beauty. Club members also had the opportunity to gain extra credit by decorating classroom windows whenever teachers requested this service. The club's imaginative monthly calendars on the lobby wall kept students well-informed of school events. This year members also aided the audio-visual department by categorizing the colored slides used in art classes. Decorating for school dances was still another service performed by the hardworking group. Under the guidance of Miss Betty Vogel the New Impressionists has become one of the Regional's most active clubs.

Designing posters for football and basketball games are Bev Peet and Judy Ceremsak.

A member of the New Impressionists, Barbara Smith shows complete concentration while making a clay armadillo as one of her projects.

As a member of the Literary Club, Wendy Jenner proofreads a manuscript for possible publication in Reveille.

Mr. Robert Hayward, adviser of the Literary Club, and his student staff headed by Ellen Albanese, have diligently worked this year on publishing Reveille. For the past two years our school magazine has provided its readers with excellent creative and original short stories, poetry, essays and scholarly articles, as well as illustrations. Most of the material used in Reveille originates in either English or art classes. This gives all students an opportunity to produce something for publication, though enthusiastic volunteers often write material that never originated in any class assignment.

Posters were made and displayed by the literary staff to encourage the student body to submit original writings for Reveille.

Math Team Always a Threat to Its Opponents

Freshman Richard Brown flashes problems on the board as Math Club members Lisa Miller, David Haszard, and Donald Jones press their buzzers to indicate they have reached an answer.

Have you ever tried to flex a flexagon, play three dimensional tic-tac-toe, or work a minivac computer? Or have you ever been a part of a living, breathing computer? These are only a few of the experiences which the members of the Math Club have enjoyed this year. In addition, they have studied topology, paradoxes, and the derivation of Pythagorean quadruples through the calculus or finite differences. Many afternoons were spent finding relationships that could be incorporated into time-saving mathematical formulas. Throughout the year the Math Club promoted student interest in mathematics by experimenting with those aspects of math that are not offered in any math course.

The Regional's Math Team has again been a threat to its opponents. Led by Captains Cathy Gorini and Tom Dresser, the team in January was second in their division and third in the state standings.

Aides to Librarian Help in Many Ways

Striving to maintain high standards in library facilities is the major duty of the 020 Club and its adviser, Mrs. Patricia Dillon. As library aides, the 020 club members through their special projects have encouraged other students to use the library more effectively. The aides have ordered material needed for research assignments, set up bibliographies of subjects pertinent to various courses, kept the information file up-to-date, and published a bi-monthly book list of acquisitions. The quiet atmosphere of the library and the friendly, helpful services of Mrs. Dillon, Mrs. Barney, and the library aides are appreciated by both student body and faculty.

Returning books to their proper places on the shelf is one of the many duties of library aide Sue Shackelford.

New books are always displayed on the library window shelves. In the background Connie Smith tends to her duties as desk clerk.

OFFICE AIDES

Aides Volunteer to Serve Others

Although their efforts are often unrecognized, the office aides perform one of the greatest services to the school. Perhaps their most significant task is organizing, typing, and distributing the daily bulletin. These aides also devote some study periods to doing errands for the main office as well as for the guidance office.

Similarly, those students working in the cafeteria contribute greatly to the smooth functioning of the school. The girls volunteer to give up their fifth period studies in order to help serve lunches, while the boys take charge of setting up the cafeteria equipment and cleaning the floors and tables after lunch. Without the assistance of these two industrious groups, the Regional could not function to its fullest efficiency.

CAFETERIA AIDES

Boosters Encourage School Spirit

Gregor, Nancy Riddle, Linda Healy, Mary Schultz, Adviser Mr. Kenneth Stewart. THIRD ROW: Karen Rood, Sarah Draper, Donna Caron, Cindy Maxwell, Steph Burnett, Gail Mahan, Kristen VanAusdal, Mary Hurley.

With Mr. Ken Stewart as its adviser, the Boosters Club is in its fourth consecutive year. The boosters promote school spirit in sports events and also help publicize the major activities of other organizations. Painting posters for school activities, selling programs during football and basketball games, financing a basketball trip to St. Johnsbury, and donating a scoreboard for the baseball field indicate the active part that club members played this year in boosting school morale.

Assisting President Susan Szaryc with these projects were Judy Perkins and Peggy Sargent, who were chairmen of various committees. Vice-President Arleigh Thurston also worked with the committee chairmen. Marta Dolan handled the club's correspondence and junior Randy Szaryc served as treasurer.

Future Teachers Spread Christmas Cheer

During the Christmas season members of the Future Teachers of America offered their services in various capacities. Holiday baskets were made and sent to patients at Danvers Hospital. A festive tea was held for the Regional faculty in the school library. Also several club members assisted elementary school teachers with their classroom parties.

At several meetings throughout the year various movies based on new teaching methods were observed by the future teachers.

Model U.N. Convenes at Regional

One of the highlights of the scholastic year was the successful Model United Nations Session organized by seniors William Johnson and Peter Wallace. On February 18 representatives from thirty eastern Massachusetts schools convened at the Regional to debate on the Arab-Israeli dispute and on the question of using an embargo against nations enforcing apartheid.

The manifold benefits from the session made it a valuable experience for all participants.

Cheerleaders Add Sparkle to Sports Events

FOOTBALL CHEERLEADERS

Dynamic is the word for this year's football and basketball cheerleaders! Under the guidance of Miss Elizabeth Vogel, the cheerleaders succeeded in arousing team spirit and awakening enthusiasm in all the students. The stalwart football cheerleaders, headed by Gail Heenan, rooted their teams on to victory in both rain and shine. To culminate their season, the night before the big Manchester game, the girls arranged a torchlight parade and pep rally, when students, bearing torches, marched through the center of town. This year's cheerleading captain for basketball was Joan Linnehan. Highlighting the season for the cheering squad and basketball players, was a three-day trip to St. Johnsbury, Vermont, for a tournament in which our team reached the semifinals.

It has been a great year for all the cheerleaders, and, of course, for Gerry General, pictured at the lower right. A familiar figure in the Regional's world of sports, Gerry General appears at all football and basketball games.

Field Hockey Team Has Lively Season

Led by co-captains Barbara Bursaw and Joan MacQuarrie, the varsity field hockey squad ended its season with a commendable 9-2 record. In all of the team's victories, only once did the girls score fewer than four goals, and because of the fine defensive efforts of the squad, only once did the opponents score more than one goal. All together the varsity scored 43 goals against 8 by their opponents. The team's losses to Newburyport and North Reading came late in the season. For the third consecutive year, B. B. Bursaw was high scorer with 23 goals to her credit. Other goal scorers were Jody Sampson, Nancy Newport, Donna Jaquith, Jean Osborn, Ellen Albanese, and Karen Rood.

Regional Triumphs in Cross-Country Meets

Guided by first-year coach Richard Lavoie, the Generals' spirited cross-country team compiled an outstanding 17-2-0 record for dual meets, including a victory over a previously undefeated team from cross-town rival Carmelite Seminary. Encouraged by coaches award-winner Ken Heath, who set seven course records during the season, the squad was second in the Cape Ann League. In a remarkable show of depth, the squad placed seven runners among the top twenty in the league. In addition, the Generals finished seventh at the state-wide Catholic Memorial Meet and sixth in Class D at the State Meet in Boston. Of the squad's top nine runners, seven will return to lead next year's team. Co-captains Ken Heath and Kevin Lawton will be lost through graduation, along with John Roy and Bill Bode; but lettermen Dick Taylor, Doug Fuller, Bruce Snively, Jay Splaine, Pierre Erhard, Dave Hall, and Scott Scribner will return.

Kevin Lawton uses his last reserve of strength to help shut-out Manchester 15-50.

Moving along at a fast clip, Ken Heath strides the Masconomet course in a record-breaking time.

Wrestling continued to grow in popularity at the Regional this year as the squad gained a large, loyal following of spectators. Led by Captain Arleigh Thurston, the grapplers compiled a five win, seven loss record. Despite the disappointing record the team finished fourth out of ten schools in the Merrimack Valley Tournament, the best performance yet by a Regional team.

Freshman Jim Day turned in an exceptionally strong performance at the Merrimack Valley Tournament as he set school records for most team points for a season, and best record for a season. Other winners at the post season tournament were Roger VanAusdal, Steve Cooper, Richard Damato, and Phil Taylor.

Coach Richard McLoon noted that many of the varsity regulars, especially in the lighter weight class, will be returning next year to form the nucleus of a potentially strong team.

Generals Play Five Close-Scoring Thrillers

Jumping high for a shot, Paul Zacccone eludes Rockport's defense and adds two points to the Regional's score.

In their fifth year under veteran Coach Sherm Kinney, the Generals recorded their fourth straight winning season with an overall record of twelve wins and seven losses. By finishing fifth in the Cape Ann League with a 10-6 mark, the Generals continued to boast the best record in the league for the past five years.

Playing in a league featuring several outstanding tall men, the Generals were at a height disadvantage in virtually every game. They were forced, then, to rely on hustle and a tough defense. These qualities paid off, particularly in close games, as they won five thrilling games by three points or less. Although no Generals ranked among the league's high scorers, Bill Carney, George Freeman, Dick MacNeill, and Doug Shafer all finished in the top twenty-five point-makers.

In February George Freeman and Dick MacNeill were selected by the Cape Ann League coaches to participate in the All-Star Game which was played with the champions from Manchester. The Hornets beat the All-Stars 68-65. Dick MacNeill won honors for being the second highest scorer in this game.

Coached by Miss Carole Kenyon, the girls' varsity basketball team closed its season with a 6-7 record. Most of the girls were new to the team. Only three of the eight girls had played on the varsity squad last year; the other five members came up from the junior varsity team.

Captain of the varsity squad was junior Jody Sampson, who had had experience for three years as a guard. The four seniors on the team were Ann Barney, the squad's second leading scorer and rebounder; Gail MacGregor, forward; Nancy Newport, also a forward; and Susan Szaryc, guard. In addition to Jody Sampson were two other juniors: top rebounder Chris Brown and forward Debbie Coffin. The eighth varsity member, the high scorer with 132 points for the season, was sophomore Doris Kalland.

One of the season's highlights came in the final minute of play against North Reading, when Doris Kalland scored the winning basket to edge North Reading 33-31.

Ken Heath gasps for breath as he rounds out the last of his winning 2 mile run against Rockport.

Again the boys track team had a successful season, winning six out of eight meets, and placing third in the Cape Ann League. The team, largely sophomores and juniors, demonstrated a willingness to work hard at developing individual skills. Dave Gray, a senior, captured fifth place in the Class D 440 event in the Massachusetts Principals Association Track Meet. Besides the eight dual meets, the team participated in the St. John's and Belmont Relays.

Even though this was the first year the girls had a track team, they showed tremendous spirit. Compiling a perfect record, the girls, led by high-scorers Ann Barker, Barbara Bursaw, and Mercia Scott, beat all their opponents in rapid succession.

At the annual Manowosco Conference Meet in June the girls displaced the defending champions, Masconomet, by scoring 49½ points to second-place Masco's 32 points. At the conference the Regional team was awarded the Bud McManus trophy.

Coaches Carole Kenyon and Robert Simpson have reason to be proud of the records of their teams.

With a look of determination, coaches award-winner D. J. Kalland anxiously awaits the next pitch from her Rockport opponent.

When the sports season ended last spring, the girls' softball team had played eleven games, winning seven and losing four. Top batting averages were attained by Sue Szaryc (.446), Jody Sampson (.423), and Jeanne Clow (.395). Highlights of the season included Jeanne Clow's grand slam at the Georgetown game and D. J. Kalland's bunt that turned into a home run against Manchester. D. J., who also stole twenty-one bases throughout the season, was presented the coaches award at the athletic assembly in June.
